Student comments:

- Professor Henne-Ochoa is now one of my favorite professors I couldn't imagine taking qualitative research methods with anyone else. He is so kind, compassionate, and genuinely interested in the lives of his students. I feel as though I have gained a new mentor and know that I will continue to seek him out for advice. He also sparked a new passion for qualitative research in me. Great class!
- This class is amazing and changed the course of my future studies. Professor Henne-Ochoa
Is one of the best instructors I have had at Bucknell. I had no idea what to expect coming into this course but I learned so much I wish other students knew how valuable this course is.
- Professor Henne-Ochoa is an excellent professor who cares deeply about his students and the level that they are able to understand the material. He is accommodating and approachable. Love the course.
- This course was definitely my favorite course at Bucknell by far. Professor Henne-Ochoa organizes this class in a way that keeps us on track and allows us to learn concepts that are very relevant without simply talking at us. By allowing us to have so much group work, and by having our own individual research projects, this course became a smaller-scale example of how to conduct research in our future.
- I thought the instructor was very dedicated and did a very good job at keeping the class interesting through discussion. I appreciate the willingness of the instructor to work with students out of class in the event you found yourself confused.
- I really enjoyed this class and learned so much. I love conducting my own study because this helped me to learn so much more about qualitative research. It allowed me to investigate a topic I found intriguing.
- I absolutely loved this class and the professor. I felt like it was one of the first classes where I learned a lot but also got the opportunity to work on my own and explore what I was interested in. I do not like talking in class, but the environment was amazing and I always felt comfortable to talk and ask questions.
- This course was crucial for my interest in qualitative research. I feel that leaving this class I have a good foundation on which I can continue to develop.
